Books that foster conversations around Social Justice

K-2

Intersection Allies: We Make Room for All
by Chelsea Johnson

A remarkable picture book about allyship and intersectionality where we see how a community can come together in everyday situations. The end notes offer a page-by-page discussion guide and much more.

Billie Jean King
by Maria Vegara

The latest title in the beloved biography series for young readers, Little People Big Dreams, tells Billie Jean King's powerful story of her advocacy for gender equality. Charming and beautifully illustrated with end notes, a timeline, and photographs of this important athlete.

Fry Bread
by Kevin Noble Maillard

A thoughtful and inspiring story about much more than food. Told with both depth and subtlety, addressing family, community, and cultural issues, this book offers warmth and beauty to readers of all ages. End notes offer outstanding cultural details.

3-5

The Undefeated
by Kadir Nelson

An inspiring tribute to Black history by two of children's literature's best contributors! Alexander's poetic text together with Nelson's distinctive and detailed paintings show us the events that shaped history. A wonderful bridge for young readers to have courageous conversations.

The Gender Wheel
by Maya Gonzalez

A simple and unique text that helps children understand gender in regards to their body, how they feel on the inside, and their preferred pronouns. A timely tool that helps us all move beyond binary constructs of gender.

Ruth Objects: The Life of Ruth Bader Ginsburg
by Doreen Rappaport

The newest book in the Big Words biography series shares the inspiring life of this Jewish woman and cultural icon whose life's work was fighting for gender equality. An excellent title for focusing on qualities such as fairness, discrimination, and equality.

Families

A Kids Book About Racism
by Jelani Memory

By a local Portland author, this child friendly introduction to racism explains what it is, how people feel when they experience it, and how to know it when you see it. Meant to be read with a grown up and foster discussion.

On Our Street: Our First Talk About Poverty
by Jillian Roberts

A gentle and informative book about homelessness, poverty, and access to education, with the intention of helping children to gain empathy and understanding around these complex topics.

This Book Is Anti-Racist
by Tiffany Jewell

An essential literacy toolbox for children, families, and educators around race and intersectionality. Thoughtful calls to action ask us to self reflect, with the intention of bringing kids and grown ups into conversations together for further awareness.
